Dear Friends,

Twenty-eight years ago, New York Cares was founded on the belief that teams of caring New Yorkers can make a major difference in the lives of New York’s most vulnerable citizens.

This past year, thanks to the continued power of teams, New York Cares helped more struggling New Yorkers than ever before by mobilizing more than 62,000 volunteers.

Working side by side, in teams of three to 50, these generous individuals helped in so many ways to enrich the lives of their neighbors in need. Their efforts included...

- cleaning, greening, and revitalizing over 140 parks and schools
- bringing much needed conversation and activities to nearly 20,000 seniors
- spending over 22,000 hours reinforcing critical reading and math skills to elementary school students
- devoting 25,000+ hours of SAT tutoring time to 1,000 juniors from underserved public high schools
- serving more than 325,000 meals to the hungry

While the numbers are impressive, they pale in comparison to the personal impact that volunteering with New York Cares has on the lives of all we touch. In this Annual Report, we invite you to read about some of last year’s accomplishments and hear the stories and testimonials of those who have benefited immeasurably from the selfless act of volunteering.

Finally, we’d like to thank you, our friends and partners, for your continued support of New York Cares, which enables our teams of volunteers to carry out this important work without fail, 365 days a year.

With ongoing appreciation and best wishes,

Paul J. Taubman
Board President

Gary Bagley
Executive Director
Every month, New York Cares manages more than 1,600 volunteer projects at schools, social service agencies, and other nonprofits throughout the city. Every one of those projects consists of caring New Yorkers who’ve come together to transform New York City by leveraging the exponential power of teamwork.

“Working with people towards a common goal with New Yorkers from all walks of life, who live anywhere from Staten Island to the Bronx, who are all committed to making New York City a better place – that is why I became a New York Cares volunteer.”

– Rafael, Team Leader
A Commitment to Our Community Partners

New York Cares serves as a strategic partner to schools and fellow nonprofits by developing and managing ongoing volunteer-based programs that build capacity and help them achieve their missions. Our commitment to providing volunteers at no cost to our Community Partners on a daily, weekly or monthly basis is why hundreds of nonprofits rely so heavily on New York Cares to tackle the city’s most pressing issues:

Education
- SAT Prep • Income Tax Prep • Mock Interviews • Homework Help • English Conversation
- Partners • Computer Tutorials • Cultural & Recreational Field Trips • Citizenship Classes

Immediate Needs
- Winter Coat Collecting • Meal Delivery, Prep & Service • Socializing with Seniors • Fitness with the Visually Impaired • Hospital Visits • Animal Care • Nutritional Instruction

Public Spaces
- Planting Trees & Flowers • Removing Invasive Species • Mural Painting • Muck Outs & Home Rebuilding • Erosion Control • Composting • Painting Schools

Every Team Needs a Leader

No program is possible without the commitment of our Team Leaders, an extraordinary group of volunteers, who represent New York Cares in the community and guarantee the continued success of our programs.

Last year, we interviewed and trained 620 new Team Leaders. In addition to supervising the efforts of their fellow volunteers, they ensure that projects run smoothly and that the objectives of each activity are met. Furthermore, as the primary source for feedback on a given program, they play a pivotal role in continuously improving the New York Cares volunteer experience.

In March 2014, we hosted our ninth annual Leadership Conference. This full day of workshops and speakers, held at the NYU Kimmel Center, was dedicated to the professional development of our Team Leaders and made possible by the continued generosity of the Robert G. and Ellen S. Gutenstein Family Foundation.
“While helping out at the Xavier Mission food pantry recently, I ran into two of our former participants from the Nutrition Education session last summer. One of them, Rose, had lost 20 pounds and the other, Maria, had lost 15 pounds.

At the pantry, they both chose whole wheat pasta instead of white pasta and asked for carrots and cabbage in the fresh vegetable section. Maria explained to me that her mother’s type 2 diabetes had been very well-managed by the new foods Maria was making her. Her mother’s blood sugar and A1C levels dropped so low that her doctors were willing to take her off some of her oral medications if she kept it up. In addition, Maria proudly reported that she no longer drinks soda on a daily basis and always looks for whole grain products on the ingredient section of nutrition labels while grocery shopping.

Rose said she has been exercising almost every day and her cholesterol levels had dropped as well.

I was ecstatic to see these wonderful women doing so well and both so happy to be healthy.”

– Alessandra, Team Leader
New Mobile Technology for Our Teams

Last year, New York Cares launched a mobile-responsive version of our website, providing a much easier way for volunteers to search and sign up for projects on their smartphones and tablets. We also added a suite of new tools to improve the ability of Team Leaders to manage their projects and volunteers.

The re-designed site was developed in response to the proliferation of mobile devices and changing needs of our volunteers—needs that were highlighted in the aftermath of Hurricane Sandy, when mobile devices were the only way many New Yorkers could access the Internet due to widespread power outages.

Improving our website’s usability on mobile devices has also increased access to New York Cares programming in communities where smartphones are often an affordable replacement for desktop computers or home Internet service. The mobile-responsive update to our site allows all New Yorkers, wherever they are, to sign up to volunteer and make a positive difference on important issues.

Mobile Pageviews

The number of pageviews to our website using a mobile device has increased by 400% since 2011.

Mobile Sign-Ups

The number of monthly volunteer sign-ups via mobile devices has increased, on average, by 66% since the debut of the mobile-responsive site.
Progress in Our Focus Neighborhoods

Launched two years ago, the Focus Neighborhood Initiative is a concerted effort by New York Cares to build a bigger local volunteer base and expand our programs in neighborhoods where the supply of volunteers has struggled to meet the needs of the communities.

In 2014, we made great strides toward growing our presence in six key neighborhoods, including three areas devastated by Hurricane Sandy. By increasing the number of volunteer trainings in these neighborhoods (from 104 to 277) and working closely with community leaders, we now offer more services to these areas and recruit more local volunteers vested in the long-term welfare of their neighborhoods.
Corporate Team-Building Through Volunteerism

New York Cares works hand-in-hand with hundreds of New York City’s most well-known and civic-minded companies to create and manage highly successful employee volunteer programs. In 2014, 820 companies demonstrated their commitment to making New York City an even better place to live and work by participating in the New York Cares Coat Drive and the Winter Wishes program and by deploying their employees across the city in a wide variety of service projects.

OMERS

The New York office of this Canadian-based pension fund has achieved 100% participation in its fundraising and volunteer efforts for New York Cares. In 2014, OMERS sent two teams to PS 677 K in East New York, which serves over 500 elementary school students. One team of volunteers read a book about bridges with 40 first graders and then helped them build their own, using popsicle sticks, straws, and glue. This exercise involved a range of math and science skills – all reinforced by the individual attention the students received from OMERS employees.

A second OMERS team revitalized the school by painting murals and organizing storage spaces. This important work made the space more inviting to the students, staff, and community members, and allowed the teachers to better use their limited resources.

Furthering their commitment to volunteerism, OMERS also raised over $300,000 for the 2014 New York Cares Winter Benefit.
For nine years, L’Oréal USA, the largest subsidiary of the world’s leading beauty company, has called upon New York Cares to collaborate on a wide variety of corporate service opportunities. Last year, during L’Oréal USA’s annual Volunteer Day, 600 of the company’s employees in NYC donated their time and talents to help fellow New Yorkers in need. Their efforts included hosting a Young Authors Workshop, a Socializing with Seniors Manicure Party, and mural painting in public schools and community centers.

“One woman actually went straight from our session to a job interview she had that day. As she left, everyone stood up and cheered her on as she walked out the door. It was a powerful moment.”

Sharing Our Volunteer Management Expertise

Mobilizing 62,000 volunteers a year requires a considerable amount of volunteer management expertise. In 2014, we took our 28 years of experience and packaged it into our Volunteer Impact Program (VIP), a comprehensive training program aimed at empowering local nonprofits to successfully scale their organizations by leveraging the power of volunteers.

This eight-week training includes beginner and advanced tracks geared specifically to organizations that want to build the foundation of a good volunteer management program and learn proven strategies to recruit, manage, and retain volunteers. VIP is unique in terms of the breadth and depth of the content it provides on volunteer management and has garnered underwriting support from NYC Service and The Staten Island Foundation.

In a separate initiative also designed to share volunteer management expertise, New York Cares teamed up with NYC Service to develop and publish a co-branded manual called the Great Volunteer Management System. The manual contains best practices, tips, resources, and exercises on a dozen topics related to managing volunteers. New York Cares and NYC Service update the e-book quarterly to include additional topics and host it on our respective websites.

“This program [VIP] opened my eyes to what other people were doing. It moved us along dramatically.”

– George Collins, VIP Participant from Monday Night Hospitality

To date, more than 60 nonprofit organizations have improved their volunteer management skills through VIP.
“The experience increased staff awareness of the importance of volunteer management. We really got to the core of what programs the volunteers wanted, and what they could provide the agency.”

– Rita Manton, VIP Participant from Sunnyside Community Services
Teams Fueling Our Annual Events

New York Cares Day Spring
Sponsored by HSBC for the past eight years, this is the largest spring cleaning event in the city. More than 228 teams, comprised of 3,200 volunteers in 68 public parks and gardens, revitalized shorelines, restored garden beds, planted flowers and trees, painted benches, and removed invasive species.

New York Cares Day Fall
More than 3,700 volunteers in 247 teams spruced up 70 New York City public schools throughout the five boroughs. Volunteers spent the day creating murals, painting classrooms, organizing libraries, and working with the school community to prepare for the school year ahead.

Last year, we ran revitalization and education projects in 247 public schools across the city.
Winter Wishes
It was another record-breaking year for Winter Wishes as generous volunteers answered more than 42,000 letters from children, teens, and seniors requesting gifts for themselves or loved ones. For many letter writers, a gift through Winter Wishes is the only holiday gift they receive. This event was generously sponsored for the fourth year by Julie Turaj and Robert Pohly.

Coat Drive
In 2014, New Yorkers donated more than 75,000 coats by dropping them off at 300 public collection sites or forming collection teams with co-workers, alumni groups, churches, and other associations.

The Coat Drive is a New York City tradition, providing warmth for New Yorkers in need for the past 26 years. New York Cares has adapted to the many changes those 26 years have brought, most recently by leveraging mobile technology and enabling donations to be made directly from the home or workplace.

“This isn’t just a coat for me – it’s a blanket, a pillow, a backpack, a shield.”

– Coat Recipient, Washington Heights CORNER Project
