“When I put on my new coat, it was the first time in a long time that I felt special. I’ve been going through some rough times and never thought I would be able to feel this warm again.”

– Client, SCO Family of Services (Renaissance Men’s Residence)
During the 2015 Coat Drive, New York Cares collected more than 100,000 winter coats, a number never before reached in the drive’s 27 years except in the aftermath of Hurricane Sandy. We have the entire city to thank for answering the call for coats, with special gratitude to the NYC business community for its unprecedented support of the Coat Drive.

_Collecting 100,000 coats enabled us to distribute coats earlier in the new year, delivering 70,000 coats before a blizzard hit NYC in January 2016._

Similar to recent years, New York Cares again received requests for more than 100,000 coats from shelters, community centers, and social service agencies serving NYC’s homeless and low-income residents. In a typical year, we collect only 75,000 coats, so we knew there was a critical gap of approximately 25,000 men, women, and children who would go without warm winter jackets if we didn’t increase our collection numbers. Through an influx of coats and monetary donations, we were able to meet the immense need this year.

Not only was New York Cares able to provide warmth to more New Yorkers in need, but the increase in coats enabled us to distribute coats earlier in the new year. By the time a blizzard hit NYC on January 23rd, 2016, we had already given away 70,000 winter coats.

New York City businesses led the charge in meeting the 100,000-coat goal. KKR, Bloomberg LP, Neuberger Berman, the Greater New York Auto Dealers Association, Halstead Property, Tishman Speyer, and others donated coats, set up collection sites, and donated money toward the purchase of coats. For more detail on how our top corporate contributors helped us meet the need for coats, see page six.

Individual New Yorkers, in addition to dropping off coats at public collection sites, also ran their own personal coat drives among colleagues, friends, or family. In 2015, more than 1,000 residents registered their own drives benefiting New York Cares, a 20% increase over last year.

Thanks to New Yorkers banding together and to the business world for recognizing an opportunity to serve its stakeholders. We are grateful to all those who rallied to make sure that 100,000 requests for coats were fulfilled.

How the Coat Drive Works

During the 2015 Coat Drive, New York Cares collected 100,000 winter coats. Except for 2012 when Hurricane Sandy struck, we’ve been able to keep more New Yorkers warm this year than we ever have in the past. Here’s how it happened:

Generous New Yorkers donated coats and funds

In addition to individual donors, 432 civic groups and 597 corporate groups started their own personal drives among their families, colleagues, and friends.

$450,000 donated and used to purchase coats and distribute them

Of the money donated, 33% came from individual donors and 67% from corporations.

Coats were delivered to the New York Cares Warehouse from all over the city

There were 239 public collection sites including every single NYPD police precinct citywide. New York Cares Coat Drive Warehouse space was donated by Vornado Realty Trust.

The coats were sorted and distributed from the warehouse

764 volunteers spent 1,600 hours sorting coats to ensure those in need got coats that fit

New Yorkers in need received winter coats

100,000 coats distributed
New York City's corporate community always plays a sizable role in the Coat Drive and 2015 was no different. This year, four firms made extraordinary contributions to help us meet the 100,000 coat requests we received from New Yorkers in need. We are deeply grateful and honored to share their stories here.

Bloomberg

Bloomberg LP rallied their employees to start their annual Coat Drive early this year to make sure we had a good stock of coats by Thanksgiving. Bloomberg pledged to match donations on behalf of every employee who donated a coat or made a cash donation toward the purchase of a new coat. The remarkable generosity of Bloomberg and its employees generated 11,400 warm winter coats, many of which were donated to The Bowery Mission, The River Fund New York, Baby Buggy, HELP USA, and Hetrick-Martin Institute.

KKR

Discovering that we collect 75,000 coats in a typical year, KKR took a hands-on approach to helping us meet the 100,000 coat requests that we received from the community. In February 2015, a team of operating professionals embarked on an extensive pro bono engagement to improve the Coat Drive’s operations and collection efforts. KKR went even further in supporting the drive by donating over 4,000 coats, enlisting other companies to participate in the drive, and providing a generous monetary donation to support the drive.

Neuberger Berman

Homeless shelters from across the city request thousands of coats for their residents each winter. This year we received 4,000 coat requests for children living in the shelter system. Upon hearing this, Neuberger Berman led the charge to ensure that no child living in a homeless shelter would go without a warm coat this winter. In addition to donating coats, Neuberger employees made generous donations to purchase enough coats to meet the full demand for children in New York City shelters.

Tishman Speyer

Tishman Speyer played a major role in helping us break the 75,000 barrier by purchasing 10,000 new coats for the drive. Even beyond Tishman Speyer’s remarkable generosity, the firm collected coats in more than 20 of its New York City-based buildings, greatly expanding the drive’s collection effort.

Coat Drive Sponsors

To collect and distribute more than 100,000 coats over the course of just seven weeks, New York Cares relies heavily on the generosity of the event’s sponsors for their financial and in-kind support. We extend our thanks to the following companies and organizations:
Bringing in the Coats

We had a few partners collect thousands of coats by setting up accessible collection sites, spreading the word to customers and residents, or running popular one-day collection events:

Enhancing the Coat Drive Experience

The following companies donated their services to make the Coat Drive run more efficiently and effectively:

- Flatrate picked up coats weekly from every Queens Library branch, helping us keep transportation costs to a minimum.
- Vornado in addition to setting up collection sites in each building it manages, Vornado also donated warehouse space from which we sort and distribute coats to the community.
- Junkluggers whether it be from Grand Central in the mornings or from a collection event in the Bronx, Junkluggers helped move donated coats to our warehouse throughout the drive.
- Lousch with many coats coming from enthusiastic New Yorkers who run their own personal drives, Lousch created an interactive online toolkit to help those Coat Drive champions bring in even more coats from their friends, family, and co-workers.
- Final Cut the iconic Shivering Statue of Liberty video PSA was enhanced for TV and online channels with the help of editing house Final Cut.

Ambassadors

New York Cares could not staff the numerous collection sites, promotional events, and coat sorting projects that take place throughout the Coat Drive without the help of the following dedicated volunteers, who serve as Coat Drive Ambassadors:

- Linda Blacken
- Ann Shalof
- Patrick McGuire
- Andrew Lippman
- Kathy Wang
- Ana Lu
- Tim Gibson
- Stephanie Chiu

“We primarily come into contact with individuals who are homeless and are unstably housed. It is impossible to overstate the impact and importance of being able to provide a warm coat to these individuals.”

Volunteers from Barclays pause their coat sorting project for a quick photo at the New York Cares Coat Drive warehouse.
“The Coat Drive secures our domestic violence clients with the ability to remain healthy during the cold winter season, as the majority of our clients come to the shelter with only the clothes on their backs.”

“Seventy percent of our students walk to school and many cannot walk when they don’t have appropriate clothing in the fall and winter. The Coat Drive makes a direct impact on attendance and, therefore, the learning that happens in our program.”
