New York Cares meets pressing community needs by mobilizing caring New Yorkers in volunteer service.

We connect the needs of the community with the passions of our residents. By extending the capacity of nonprofits and schools across the city, our volunteers help address inequities within three core impact areas: education, immediate needs, and public spaces.
2019 was a year for questions. How do we deepen our impact? How do we form stronger relationships with the communities we serve? How do we provide truly transformational volunteer programming?

New York Cares sought answers the way we have for decades: by listening to our nonprofit and school partners, assessing the needs of local communities, and adapting our programming to match. We piloted new programs in NYC public schools to support English Language Learners, introduced students to social-emotional learning practices, and reimagined indoor and outdoor revitalization projects.

We sought to deepen relationships between volunteers and communities. Our first cohort of Starbucks Foundation Fellows laid the groundwork for a more holistic approach to assessing need. Our Winter Wishes program brought thousands of gifts to children and teens in family shelters, transitional housing, and Title I Schools. We distributed nearly 95,000 warm winter coats, 10,000 of which went directly to NYC Community Schools for students and families living in temporary housing.

All thanks to the countless donors, volunteers, partners, and broader community for their generosity and continued commitment to building a more equitable city for all New Yorkers.

Education

Helping New Yorkers learn and succeed on their own terms. Programs include homework help, reading support, citizenship and naturalization services, NYC’s largest free SAT tutoring program and more.

Immediate Needs

Bringing companionship, dignity, and financial stability to populations facing hardship. Programs include meal prep and distribution, tax prep assistance, socialization with seniors, warm coats, and more.

Public Spaces

Working side by side with the City to revive parks, keep beaches clean and schools maintained. Programs include park revitalization, urban farming, schoolyard beautification, and more.
Focusing on Impact

Approximately 13.5% of New York City students are English Language Learners (ELL), many of whom need extra academic support, especially in reading.

In 2019, we piloted reading programs for ELL students, where volunteers worked with students to build core literacy skills. Early results of our program at PS 196 K showed nearly all students increased their reading an average of 1-2 levels.

The New York City Department of Education and Mayor Bill DeBlasio have also been stressing the importance of social-emotional learning (SEL). Following an assessment of school needs we began using SEL curriculum created by Sanford Harmony, a NYC DOE partner, at two of our partner schools.

When it came to meeting basic community needs, New York Cares volunteers worked to collect 94,960 warm winter jackets for the 31st annual Coat Drive. 10,000 coats were donated to NYC public schools for students and families living in temporary housing. Furthermore, 700+ volunteers infused more than $20+ million dollars into our community through our Tax Prep program!

“Often teachers do not realize how lost ELL students are in the classroom. This one-on-one time with volunteers is so helpful to get the students caught up and included.”

– Ms. Calo
Teacher, PS 196 K in East Williamsburg (Early Morning Reading sessions)
Deepening Relationships with Communities

In 2019, we hosted our first cohort of Starbucks Fellows, native New Yorkers Todd Gayle and Adam Maldonado.

The Starbucks Foundation Service Fellow program provides Starbucks employees with an opportunity to pursue their personal passions by supporting the work of local nonprofits. Our fellows collaborated closely with staff to develop a new scalable model for community engagement, starting with neighborhoods in Bed-Stuy, Brooklyn, and Jamaica, Queens.

From attending community board meetings and town halls to engaging with stakeholders in focus groups and building relationships with local nonprofits and elected officials, the Starbucks Fellows made valuable contributions to the way New York Cares continues to foster community-led solutions in high-need neighborhoods.

“I think there’s something to be said about organizations and people and companies and groups that aren’t afraid to change what works in order to be better. It is an experiment to see how things work, and how you move forward to engage communities on a more meaningful level.”

– Todd Gayle
Starbucks Fellow
Transformative Service

New York Cares Day for Schools focused on revitalizing spaces at 15 NYC public schools.

More than 1,500 volunteers came together for these projects tailored to the needs of each specific school community. From meditation spaces to a new library, spaces were transformed in ways more significant than mere aesthetics.

“PS 18 X has been in partnership with New York Cares for more than a decade. That’s dog years in loyalty. Projects have left imprints on our classrooms, playgrounds, cafeteria, library, gym and just about every space you can imagine in a school; even our basement. A huge thank you goes out to New York Cares staff, project managers, volunteers and sponsors. These revitalization projects would not have been possible without their commitment and hard work.”

– Georgia Reid
School Business Manager, PS 18 X

“New York Cares volunteers changed how I feel about college. Before, I didn’t want to go to college. I’m the middle child and I didn’t want to put my family through all that financially. Now I’ve learned about the FAFSA and financial aid and ...I want to go.”

– Alison, 2019 College Prep student
“Today, while I was just sitting preparing somebody’s taxes, I looked up and a client was looking at me. She smiled at me and said, ‘You did my taxes last year!’ It’s the kind of reaction I enjoy. When people you only see once a year are genuinely happy with the service you offer them, that really makes my day.”
